FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE - (Alexandria, LA)

February 9, 2017 - The Central Louisiana Regional Port (CLRP) is pleased to announce an agreement with Alexandria Terminal Company, LLC (ATC) for use of the Port's Liquid Off-Loading Terminal, located at the Port's property in Alexandria.

"CLRP is excited to work with Alexandria Terminal Company, LLC, in utilizing a pivotal asset of the Port," comments Bryon Salazar, President of the CLRP Commission. "This agreement not only ensures full efficiency of the Port-owned asset, but it also connects other properties within the Alexandria Industrial Park."

The agreement includes non-exclusive use and operating abilities of the liquid off-loading facility. Upon upgrades completed by the Port and ATC, the facility will have off-loading capabilities for bulk motor-grade gasoline and diesel fuel with pipeline connectivity to bulk fuel storage tanks.

"We are looking forward to expanding our business into Central Louisiana and are very pleased to be locating here at CLRP. The Red River provides a dependable, navigable waterway to support uninterrupted barge supply." Maurice Gowland, President, Alexandria Terminal Company LLC.

According to Blake Cooper, CLRP Executive Director, "Port tenants like Alexandria Terminal Company impact the local community and this particular agreement helps grow tonnage on the Red River an additional 200,000 per year."
